

For maintenance and repair of your Car, 4WD or Light Commercial suspension, call into South Coast Auto Services. The suspension is a vital part of your car components that directly affect your ability to drive. If your suspension is not up to Australian standards, your car could be unsafe to drive on the road. There are many signs that your car's suspension is not up to Australian standards:

Your car sways uncontrollably

There is vibration through the pedal and steering wheel

Your car bounces whenever you go over bumps in the road

There are 'clunking' or 'squeaking' noises

Your car dips forward when you brake

Your car is hard to handle around corners

Excessive or uneven tire wear

If you've noticed any of these problems with your suspension, give us a call at South Coast Auto Services (Click Here). When your suspension is unsafe, your wheels will leave the road meaning you are unable to control the car and avoid possible accidents.
