It is vital that your child is in the correct child restraint for each and every car journey. Research shows that children travelling in correctly installed restraints are 70% less likely to be killed or seriously injured in the event of a crash.

Having your child safely belted into a restraint that is suitable to their size, weight and age, and is correctly fitted and adjusted, is paramount at all times. A child who is not belted into a restraint is at risk of serious injury in even a minor crash. To enquire Click Here.
